For decades, the Gucci Trademarks and the Diamond Motif Trade Dress have received widespread exposure in the marketplace. Over the years, millions of consumers have been exposed to the Gucci Trademarks and the Diamond Motif Trade Dress through extensive advertising campaigns, in mainstream and fashion magazines and other periodicals, as depicted on television and in motion pictures, on the Internet, and in other forms of unsolicited media coverage.

37. Further, over many years, Gucci has realized enormous and ever-increasing success in its sales of products bearing the Gucci Trademarks and/or the Diamond Motif Trade Dress, such sales totaling in the billions of dollars in the United States alone.

38. Moreover, Gucci always endeavors to maintain the prestige and reputation for quality and luxury associated with the GUCCI brand. Strict quality control standards are imposed in the manufacture of all GUCCI branded products. Gucci's painstaking adherence to only the highest quality standards has resulted in widespread and favorable public acceptance among consumers for all products bearing the Gucci Trademarks and/or the Diamond Motif Trade Dress.

39. As a result of Gucci's extensive advertising and promotion, adherence to the highest quality standards, and extraordinary sales success, the Gucci Trademarks and the Diamond Motif Trade Dress, as well as other well known designs, logos and indicia introduced by Gucci, are among the most widely-recognized trademarks and source-indicating indicia in the United States, possessing strong secondary meaning among consumers and the trade, immediately identifying Gucci as the exclusive source of the products to which they are affixed, and signifying goodwill of incalculable value.

DEFENDANTS' ACTS OF INFRINGEMENT AND UNFAIR COMPETITION

40. Defendants are engaged in designing, manufacturing, advertising, promoting, selling, and/or offering for sale apparel and accessory products for men, women and children bearing logos and source-identifying indicia that are studied imitations of the Gucci Trademarks, including a green-red-green stripe design, a repeating interlocking GG design, and interlocking GG design, a stylized G design, and a script Guess design (collectively the "Infringing Products"). Defendants advertise, promote and sell the Infringing Products through their own retail stores, factory outlets, and Internet website <<http://shop.guess.com/>>, as well as through a vast network of third parties who purchase such products from Defendants at wholesale. Copies of printouts from Defendants' website, and the websites of third parties which sell Defendants' products at retail, depicting examples of the Infringing Products are attached hereto as Exhibit L.

41. Moreover, Defendants are engaged in designing, manufacturing, advertising, promoting, selling, and/or offering for sale apparel and accessory products for men, women and children bearing logos and source-identifying indicia that are studied imitations of Gucci's Diamond Motif Trade Dress (the "Infringing Trade Dress Products"). Copies of printouts from Defendants' website, and the websites of third parties which sell Defendants' products at retail, depicting examples of the products bearing the Infringing Trade Dress Products are attached hereto as Exhibit M.

42. Upon information and belief, Defendants intend to continue to design, manufacture, advertise, promote, sell, and/or offer for sale the Infringing Products and the Infringing Trade Dress Products, unless otherwise restrained.

43. Defendants are well aware of the extraordinary fame and strength of the Gucci Trademarks and Diamond Motif Trade Dress, and the incalculable goodwill symbolized thereby, and that the Infringing Products and/or the Infringing Trade Dress Products cannot be used as indicators of source or sponsorship for the products they are manufacturing, advertising and/or distributing. Accordingly, Defendants have been engaging in the above-described unlawful activities knowingly and intentionally, or with reckless disregard for Gucci's rights in the Gucci Trademarks and the Diamond Motif Trade Dress.

44. Together with, and in addition to the Infringing Products and/or the Infringing Trade Dress Products, Defendants are using various other design elements and designations, including, but not limited to certain fonts, typefaces, designs and graphic designs that are knockoffs of design elements and designations used by or associated with Gucci (the “Knockoff Design Elements”), all with the deliberate intention to cause consumers and the trade to believe that their products and product lines are authorized, sponsored, approved, endorsed or licensed by Gucci, or that Defendants are in some way affiliated with Gucci. Side-by-side examples of certain products bearing design elements and designations used by or associated with Gucci, and products bearing Defendants’ corresponding Knockoff Design Elements, are attached hereto as Exhibit N.

45. Defendants’ advertisement, promotion and sale of products bearing the Knockoff Design Elements is part of a sophisticated and elaborate scheme to target Gucci, to create products that are similar in appearance to the most popular and best-known Gucci products, and to trade upon the goodwill and reputation associated with Gucci and its high quality, distinctive product lines. Indeed, in many instances, Defendants have replicated entire Gucci product designs, to the point that there appears to be a concerted effort to “Gucci-ize” Defendants’ product line.

46. Rather than going through the effort and expense of developing and creating their own unique designs, Defendants have chosen to target Gucci by knowingly and slavishly replicating Gucci’s world famous design elements and designations, so that they can take advantage of the markets and demand Gucci has created for such designs without having to incur the developmental, promotional and advertising expenses that Gucci has incurred.

47. Upon information and belief, Defendants’ pervasive use of the Knockoff Design Elements is a blatant attempt to misappropriate the skills, expenditures and labors of Gucci, and profit from the commercial advantage Gucci has established, and the international recognition Gucci has achieved for its famous design elements and designations.

48. Upon further information and belief, Defendants intend to continue to sell products bearing the Knockoff Design Elements, and will continue to misappropriate additional design elements and designations associated with Gucci, unless otherwise restrained.

66. Defendants' acts are calculated to deceive, or are likely to deceive, consumers who recognize and associate the Diamond Motif Trade Dress with Gucci.
